Registration is still open for the 9th Annual 1 Day Engineering Kids Camps on July 24-28 at the Putnam Museum & Science Center. There are five, one day camps for grades 2-8, including a 1 day "Girls Only" camp.

Students and volunteers will have a fun day full of exciting, engaging experiences for young creators and innovators. Campers will experience three hands on learning activities including LEGO Robotics along with the inspiring 3D movie, "Dream Big". The camper attendees will be creating solutions side by side with area engineers, technologist, college students, and other professionals.

Volunteers and students can continue to pre-register for the camps until we reach capacity for each day. Financial assistance is available for students. Previous volunteer experience is not required with several different volunteer roles available.

The Camps will be held at the Putnam Museum & Science Center and is supported by Iowa State University College of Engineering in partnership with the Quad City Engineering & Science Council (QCESC), John Deere, and the Putnam Museum & Science Center along with sponsors NDIA and Shive-Hattery.

Further information on the camps including registration for students and volunteers is at: <http://qcesc.org/engineering-kids-camp/>
